

Beer52

Renowned for its colourful, bold designs, JA!COCO! has transformed Beer52's Edinburgh office into a glorious dynamic, flexible and bold space, highlighting the beauty of the Georgian townhouse it is situated in, whilst embodying the brand's strong identity. As the world's biggest beer subscription service, Beer52 wanted an office space that was colourful and playful – the crazier JA!COCO! went, the better! Taking inspiration from Roald Dahl and David Lynch, the office space now boasts grand, arched-entrance swing doors, beer taps on receptions and floor-to-ceiling custom window blinds – to name just a few. On the first floor, an eclectic zig zag flooring design has also been created, using Forbo's Flotex Colour range in the Melon (a burned orange shade) and Crystal (a heather-like hue) colourways. In fact, the colourways influenced the colour scheme for the office space, with similar shades adorning the walls, ceilings and swing doors. JA!COCO! also chose to install Forbo's Allura Click LVT planks in the Blond Timber colourway throughout the hallway and kitchen spaces, to complement the more 'stripped back' décor, which has an almost bar-like atmosphere.

Commissioned by	Beer52
Interior designer	JA!COCO!
Location	Edinburgh

Used Products

Allura Click Pro blond timber

Flotex Colour tiles Calgary melon

Flotex Colour tiles Calgary crystal

