

Edmonton Green Library

When Ingleton Wood was tasked with refreshing the design of Edmonton Green Library, a bright and stimulating design from the Forbo Eternal Digital Print collection was chosen to transform the children's area into a fun and contemporary space. David Wright, Project Manager at Ingleton Wood explains "The library offers fantastic resources for children and as such, we needed to create an environment that encouraged young people to want to visit the library, while inspiring them to learn. We selected Forbo's Rainbow design from the Eternal collection due to the flooring's durability and colourful digitally printed design, which can inject an element of fun into any room. The rainbow runs seamlessly from the reception down the ramp, through the buggy park and into the children's library, making the children's area easily accessible. "The library offers fantastic resources for children and as such, we needed to create an environment that encouraged young people to want to visit the library, while inspiring them to learn. We selected Forbo's Rainbow colourway from the Eternal Colour collection due to the flooring's durability and colourful digitally printed design, which can inject an element of fun into any room. The colourful design runs seamlessly from the reception down the ramp, through the buggy park and into the children's library, making the children's area easily accessible for parents with buggies." Forbo's Eternal Colour heterogeneous vinyl flooring collection can be used in various spaces wherever people work, learn or play. The PVC wear layer maximises the wear resistance of the material and maintains the integrity of the design. Furthermore, the vinyl uses Forbo's proven PUR Pearl lacquering protection technique to ensure the highest level of chemical and scuff resistance for a long-lasting appearance. The unique rainbow design reveals a spectrum of colour gradients over a 10m length, enabling a rolling cascade of rainbow hues as the first colour follows the last without any break in the pattern. The multi-coloured print creates a fun and fresh abstract effect. Check out our library flooring section to find more inspiration.

Project Name	Edmonton Green Library
Location	North London
Interior Design	Ingleton Wood
Commissioned By	Enfield Council

Eternal Colour
soft rainbow

