

Edmonton Green Library

When Ingleton Wood was tasked with refreshing the design of Edmonton Green Library, a bright and stimulating design from the Forbo Eternal Digital Print collection was chosen to transform the children's area into a fun and contemporary space. David Wright, Project Manager at Ingleton Wood explains "The library offers fantastic resources for children and as such, we needed to create an environment that encouraged young people to want to visit the library, while inspiring them to learn. We selected Forbo's Rainbow design from the Eternal collection due to the flooring's durability and colourful digitally printed design, which can inject an element of fun into any room. The rainbow runs seamlessly from the reception down the ramp, through the buggy park and into the children's library, making the children's area easily accessible.

Project name	Edmonton Green Library
--------------	------------------------

Location	North London
----------	--------------

Interior designer	Ingleton Wood
-------------------	---------------

Commissioned by	Enfield Council
-----------------	-----------------

Used Products

