

Flixtrain, Germany

FlixTrain GmbH is a German rail transport company that belongs to the FlixBus brand. Since 2013, the FlixBus brand has been changing the way millions of people in Europe travel with the convenient, affordable and, above all, ecologically sustainable alternative to individual transport. Its success is also based on the digitalization of a traditional means of transport through, among other things, free WiFi on trains and buses and the FlixBus app. The highest comfort, safety and environmental standards are implemented in the green long-distance trains. Flotex textile flooring can easily keep up with these high standards. Flotex promises excellent walking comfort, ensures good room acoustics, remains slip-resistant when wet, and is washable. Moreover, more important than ever today, Flotex can be disinfected easily and efficiently. In addition, the clean run zones in the entrance areas of the trains were equipped with Coral Classic Raven black. These ensure that the greatest amount of wetness and dirt particles is collected as soon as the train is entered. Forbo's multi-layered textile range also provides the right flooring solution for the moving space.
