

Nomura Research Institute

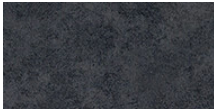

Architects at UltraConfidential Design wanted to create an office space for Nomura Research Institute, a Japanese consulting giant, which would offer a fun and friendly environment. A mix of concrete and light wooden shades was used from the Allura and Flotex ranges. The synergy of Flotex and Allura ensures comfort with performance.

Interior Architect	UltraConfidential Design
Location	Gurgaon, India
Project name	Nomura Research Institute

Used Products

XX Allura Wood central oak

Flotex Colour sheet Calgary ash

