

Nottingham Casuals Rugby Club

Nottingham Casuals RFC has recently seen its clubhouse upgraded, with new flooring donated by Forbo Flooring Systems and installed by FITA and WEBS Training apprentices. Forbo's Surestep safety vinyl, Sarlon acoustic vinyl and Coral entrance matting were all installed as part of this renovation, meeting the needs of the space. Since its initial founding in 1922, Nottingham Casuals RFC has been a mainstay in the local area. Playing out of the Ken Allen-Smith Playing Fields, the club has become a key part of the surrounding community, with events regularly hosted at its clubhouse. After years of use, the existing floor coverings had begun to deteriorate and show their age, with the club keen to refurbish the space and continue building its offering. Karl Pettit, President of Nottingham Casuals RFC, explained: "We were in desperate need of some high-quality flooring that would not only perform well within the space and stand up to daily wear and tear but also modernise and freshen up its appearance. However, these types of renovations can easily become expensive, with the materials themselves and the labour to install them.
