

Sapporo Hakuyokai Hospital

The Sapporo Hakuyokai Hospital is located in a cold, snowy region in Japan. The relocation and renovation of the building needed to meet the requirements of this environment. The selected flooring had to tick the following boxes: • Non-slip (slip resistant) flooring • Durability and dryness to withstand snow • Infection control • Fall protection (cushioning) • Easy maintenance • A sophisticated design that does not give the impression of a heavy hospital Forbo's Flotex flooring and Coral entrance flooring meet all the requirements. The entrance features 3 snow removal rooms with Coal entrance mats that prevent snow and dirt from entering. In the other spaces a beautiful circular Flotex custom design has been installed in warm natural colours. A great example of combining aesthetics with functionality!
