

Stephane Hessel High School

When it came to renovating classrooms at the Stephane Hessel High School in France, Modul'up fitted the bill perfectly from both a technical and aesthetical point of view as the project required a product that would deliver excellent acoustic properties, indentation resistance, and would be easy to maintain. One year on and the floor is performing as well as it did the first day of installation; teachers appreciate the studious atmosphere and acoustic comfort, pupils love the modern design and the cleaning staff are happy with how easy it is to clean and maintain.
