

Systemat | Häcker Küchen Rödinghausen

Häcker Küchen is a German family business that has been developing and producing high-quality kitchens "Made in Germany" on a production area of 223,500 m² for over 120 years. The company stands for innovation, quality and sustainable production and offers a wide range of modern and classic kitchen styles that are tailored to individual needs. With a strong focus on design and functionality, Häcker combines excellent craftsmanship with state-of-the-art technology. By using renewable raw materials, recycled materials and climate-neutral and energy-saving manufacturing processes, Häcker is also committed to a sustainable and healthy future. The Häcker "Systemat" product line stands for modern, design-oriented kitchen concepts in which the fronts are covered with Furniture Linoleum from Forbo. The material gives the kitchens a special aesthetic and also meets the functional requirements. Furniture linoleum is durable, easy to care for and resistant to scratches, stains and fingerprints. It also consists of sustainable, natural raw materials such as linseed oil, resin and wood flour and is produced in a climate-positive way. The environmentally friendly product gives the kitchen a modern and matt finish and becomes a highlight in every room.
