

The British School of Aragón

The British School of Aragón reaffirms its dedication to sustainability and student well-being by incorporating Forbo's natural linoleum flooring into its facilities. This innovative renovation project, led by Seventy Eight, enhances the school environment with eco-friendly materials that promote a healthy and chemical-free atmosphere. Forbo's linoleum, crafted from 100% natural and renewable materials, was chosen for its antibacterial properties, durability, and modern aesthetic. Its low-maintenance requirements ensure a long-term investment in quality and sustainability. Through this initiative, The British School of Aragón positions itself as a trailblazer in adopting sustainable practices in educational spaces, setting a benchmark for institutions seeking to combine environmental responsibility with student well-being.

Location	Zaragoza
General contractor	Seventy Eight
Interior designer	Patricia Casamayor
Installation by	Masgeo

Used Products

