

Aveling Jandakot Training Centre, Meyer Shircore & Associates Architecture

Aveling is a professional registered training organisation and one of the most respected training providers in WA to those in the mining, resources, construction and industrial sectors. The Jandakot training centre is purpose built and offers state of the art facilities. The new centre offers modern technology and professional yet comfortable learning environments. Marmoleum was used throughout the public spaces.

Project summary – Meyer Shircore

The overall aesthetic of the interior embodies the corporate identity of Aveling's marketing scheme as seen with various elements of their logo used throughout. There is an intentional cohesion between the building's external and internal elements. The design language of both linear and diagonal elements, the monochromatic colour palette and the Aveling corporate identity are all intertwined and act harmoniously with the surrounding environment.
