

De Bulb - Heemstede

In 1924 the Maatschappij voor Bollencultuur (Society for bulbs culture) gave the architect j. Zietsma command to design a prestigious building. The property is designed in a variant of the well known Amsterdam School style, the (New) Hague School. Popularly, the building was called the 'bulb' (bulbs barn), therefore this name. The building is now a national monument and is used by various companies as office building.

Architect	EversPartners, Velsen-noord
Installation by	Motz Binnen, Heemskerk
Photographer	Erik Poffers
Location	Heemstede, NL

Used Products

Allura Wood muted vintage oak

Showtime Nuance
perle

Showtime Nuance
souris

Showtime Nuance
bleu canard

Showtime Nuance
beige

Showtime Nuance
olive

Showtime Nuance
gris moyen

