Forbo Flooring Systems introduces monumental and spectacular new Linoleum collection: Marmoleum Solid

Marmoleum Solid, a new Linoleum for a new generation!

As from April 2017 Forbo Flooring System launches its new Marmoleum Solid collection, a new linoleum for a new generation! No less than five impressive ranges make up the Marmoleum Solid collection.

One of the sub-collections, Marmoleum Cocoa, a linoleum with added crushed natural cocoa shell which enhance the tactility of the product and creates a beautiful organic visual, has already been awarded the 2017 iF Product Design Award. A second true innovation for linoleum is presented with the Marmoleum Slate collection, a range of natural slate varieties, each of them embossed with a random realistic slate pattern.

Other ranges in the new Marmoleum Solid collection are a renewed and fresh range of Walton uni colours, emphasising both the heritage of this contemporary classic as well as the modern appeal it has when it is transferred into today's colour scheme. Marmoleum Concrete, a popular design introduced with the initial Marmoleum Solid collection has been widened with both new colours and structures. Also the successful Concrete colour ranges have been upgraded and in format and number and each show a delicate shimmer of colour appearing in the concrete-like surface. The colours of the concrete colour range correspond with items from the Marmoleum Piano range, the fifth collection that is presented within Marmoleum Solid.

Marmoleum Piano is a proven and successful range which comes close to a uni design but still has good soil-hiding properties. Marmoleum Piano has been re-worked and now shows a very nice coordinated ranges representing the colours of the sky, the sun, the grass and the earth.

In many ways Marmoleum Solid shows that linoleum floor coverings have the capacity to move beyond the classic marbled structures and transcend into floor covering solutions that fit today's day and age, and beyond the traditional segments like education, health care and public buildings. Marmoleum Solid provides spectacular floors for office, retail or leisure and hospitality environments as well as of course those where Linoleum is traditionally used, each time creating fresh, safe, hygienic and comfortable indoor environments.
