

PRESS RELEASE

New Flotex plank collection: setting a new standard in office design

Flotex high tech textile in a new modular format

With its new collection of Flotex high tech textile planks, Forbo Flooring Systems creates a new era for interior design in office and leisure & hospitality environments. The new collection contains 6 new designs, each available in a wide range of colourways. The planks, measuring 25 x 100cm, are easy to install and invite designers and architects to play with colour mixes as well as laying patterns. The end-result is a striking, comfortable, hygienic textile floor which is both safe as well as extremely durable.

Flotex planks feature a surface of densely packed Nylon 6.6. fibres that provide an indestructible yet comfortable floor to walk on. Flotex is hygienic as the fibre catches and release fine dust to standard cleaning appliances.

The Flotex planks collection also introduces a new and innovative embossing technique in which the nylon fibres are compressed creating a 3D effect on the floor. The Flotex Triad design in which the embossing is introduced shows a metric pattern of embossed and colourful printed line patterns side by side, creating a spectacular all over floor design in which the shape of the plank still features as an additional design element.

Other designs in the collection feature an elegant box-cross graphic pattern, a colourful all over design with bright but warm colours and a series of so called natural designs featuring sea-grass, wood, stone and concrete patterns.

Flotex planks are easy to install and can be combined with other floorcovering products from Forbo Flooring Systems such as the Allura flex loose lay tile and plank collection.

For more information please contact Paul Carney on 01 289 8898 or email info@forbo-flooring.ie